

Empowering Patients with Rare Diseases

Rare disease patients face many challenges, from getting a diagnosis to finding the right treatment.

It can take several years to receive a diagnosis, so empowering patients on their journey is important.

Decisionmakers can empower rare disease patients by:

-  Bridging the gap between patients and specialists
-  Expanding access to genetic testing and counseling
-  Establishing a Rare Disease Advisory Council of advocates and policymakers in all states

Rare disease patients deserve full support.

